FROM THE PRESIDENT

Further to my letter which all members received with the Re-Enactment brochure, the Executive Committee at the April meeting, has endorsed proposals for the Fellowship's involvement in a number of Bicentennial activities.

The Celebration Dinner will be held on the 25th January 1988, and it is proposed that we toast in the Bicentennial at midnight. The Sheraton Wentworth has been booked, and an invitation has been extended to his Excellency the Governor.

Australia Day will be extremely busy; somehow 11 First Fleeters will be rowed ashore in a long boat from the fleet, to the flag unveiling ceremony. Later, at First Fleet Park, a roll call is envisaged of one descendant from each First Fleeter. The Executive has tentatively booked a ferry (plus catering) to view the fireworks in the vening. A full timetable will be prepared later in the year as it is hoped that there will be some event of note each month during 1988.

The First Fleet Re-enactment has agreed to fly a Fellowship Flag into Port Jackson — this, plus a new banner will be a feature next year.

We are investigating the feasibility of issuing a special Bicentennial Fellowship Certificate and Medallion. On the last Sunday in August 1988, we propose to hold a Childrens' Day Picnic in Centennial Park ideas will be welcome.

It would be advisable to visitors to Sydney, for the Bicentennial Celebrations, to book hotel/motel accommodation now, as we have been advised that bookings are very heavy for January.

Invitations have been coming in at a rather fast pace, over the last few weeks — it makes one feel that we have just been discovered! Perhaps publicity from Portsmouth later this month will enlighten some politicians (and ministers) both state and federal, to our existence.

Our stall in Macquarie St on the Sunday of Heritage Week raised over $600.00. Appreciation is due to those who helped on that day. Results of our combined stall at the Easter Show, with the R.A.H.S., will be in the next issue of the Newsletter.

On Wednesday May 13th next at lunchtime, in Martin Place, Australia Post intends holding a ceremony involving Fellowship members to launch the "First Fleet Departure" set of stamps, in a series of Bicentennial collections. We need members in 18th Century costume, in addition to several, who may be prepared to present a story of his or her First Fleeter. Please ring me THIS WEEK if you are prepared to take part. Office 29 8007 or my home after 7 p.m. 868 3063.

The executive has been investigating suitable properties to purchase as our headquarters within the CITY area. We hope to be able to announce the purchase of our own premises, within the next few months, at a price within our capabilities. As I have said previously, we will be committed for rental in our present situation for $60,000 to $80,000 for the next ten years, therefore the purchase of our own premises is an economically viable proposition.

Joining fees and Subscriptions have been increased this year; the first time for a number of years. Details are included in this Newsletter.

As our incorporation nears, and from the letters I am receiving from you, I feel that the time is drawing close for committees, or chapters, of the fellowship to be formed throughout this continent. Whilst Sydney must remain the H.Q. of the national body, and verify and issue certificates, the fellowship must decentralize to survive. We have a potential of 40,000 members and that is a conservative estimate. This month we have enrolled 72 new members — This week (March 31 - 7 April) we have enrolled 25 new members — our aim is our own premises — With your help we CAN and WILL succeed.

October 1988 is the proposed month for a Fellowship Pilgrimage to Tasmania. The trip will be bus/ferry and of about 12 days duration. More details later.

The President's Reception will be held at our rooms on Wednesday 20th May. R.S.V.P. 29 8007 before that date — "old members" please bring a plate.

Stephen Bartlett, son of member Elaine Bartlett, FF George Johnston/Esther Abraham is a member of the Bicentennial Orchestra which will be a feature of the festivities at Portsmouth in May. Our good wishes go to Stephen and the Orchestra.

The Argyle Tavern Dinner to be held on the evening of Wednesday 13th May next at 7pm, has been costed at $25.00 per head. Please forward your cheque and/or confirm by Monday 11th May even if you have already indicated acceptance.

Finally, may I, on your behalf, wish Joyce Cowell, Alice Clarke, Lloyd Allchin and Hugh Morgan executive members bon voyage to Portsmouth. I am sure they will be a credit to the Fellowship and have been promised a Right Royal welcome.

We say to them "God speed and a safe return." Joyce, of course is representing the Fellowship and the 1788-1820 Pioneer Association.

The Families of Abel S. Everingham (1085) and Robert L Cowan husband of Alice Cowan (2026) our deepest sympathy is extended.

FROM THE MAILBOX

From the Prime Minister thanking the Fellowship for letter of congratulations re Australia Day holiday sent on 30.1.87. We still await a reply from the Premier of NSW.

From Dot Johnson (2569) FF Ann Forbes with the suggestion that each newsletter lists office bearers and that a list of members be compiled annually and available to members at a small fee; and also we look into the possibility of producing address labels with the FFF logo.

Many thanks Dot for these thoughtful suggestions. This issue contains the names of the executive but costs of producing this newsletter would preclude the publication of this each month. The executive is looking into the mechanics of your other ideas. We indeed look forward to your future involvement. (Dot is the State President of the Women Bowlers Assn. Ed).

From Mrs D. Harris No. 2703 FF Andrew Goodin/Lydia Munro Koondrook Vic. — hasn't noticed mention of Tasmania re plaques (A list of First Fleeters who died in Tasmania may be seen in the Nov. issue of the Newsletter — Ed).

We are more than interested in Tasmania and the FFF will descend on that State inforce in October 1988.

Mrs Harris also mentions Robert Hughes' idea in putting up a permanent memorial to the convicts of the First Fleet. (The President tried to contact Mr Hughes to no avail — the executive is, by an overwhelming majority, in favour of a memorial to ALL First Fleeters not just the convicts. Ed).

Many thanks for your letter which will be answered personally by the President in the near future.

Kathleen Broughton (3033) FF Wm Broughton takes us gently to task for considering Newcastle — (Perhaps somewhere between Sydney and Newcastle). Kathleen has unwittingly become an ally of exec. member Frank Everingham who is the lone voice calling for Bowral again next year. We must consider quite a number of Novocastrians, Maitlanders and those who reside Points North. The venue under consideration would be almost equivalent to Hyde Park in Sydney and the auditorium for the meeting would be ideal. How about us hiring a couple of buses for the trip?

Mavis Stuart (3485) FF Ed. Goodin sends bouquets and tells us she is writing a book with her niece, Betty Hicks, on Edward Goodin, First Fleeter. Mavis also is interested in the proposed commemorative plaque for St Annes Ryde.

There is a possibility this may be done inconjunction with the Small Reunions in October 1988. You will be more than welcome to attend. Looking forward to your offer of help — Thanks Mavis.

There doesn't appear much space for further letters but we close this segment from Margaret Thompson of Clayfield Brisbane (No. 3460 Lucas Gascoigne). These Lucas' are really keen! I have answered the first part of her letter in the list of committee members — now for the rest — Margaret writes — "The benefit of fellowship is heavily weighted in favour of those who live within a few hours drive from Sydney" — This is what the President has been saying for two years — This can be overcome WHEN we incorporate — we need more catalysts like Margaret to form Chapters Committees under the guidance of the executive body. If we don't do this after 1988 our membership could possibly stagnate.

Margaret also pens some constructive suggestions which are under consideration by the executive in the form of an information booklet.

Also our first enquiry for information:-

Lucas/Gascoigne: Dau Sarah M James Hortle Launceston 1820. Information please re their sons James b 1827, Henry b 1830 and William b 1831 to Mrs M Thomason 7/15 Junction Rd Clayfield Qld. 4011. The archivist, Joyce and Assistants Hazel and Mary thank you for the "tree".

Margaret I know there are many more like-minded out there, and I know that the fellowship will go from strength to strength through our combined efforts. PGC.

FROM THE PAST

THE FIRST CHAPLAIN

The first Church Service in New South Wales was conducted by the Rev. Richard Johnstone on Sundar 3rd February, 1788, under a large shady tree. A monument in Richard Johnstone Square at the corner of Hunter and Bligh Streets, marks the spot.

Richard Johnstone, as Chaplain to the Penal Settlement, had to "be the guardian of public morality". He carried out all the clerical duties of the Colony for the first six years; baptisms, marriages and funerals, and he worked hard among the convicts.

Despaired of waiting for a church to be built, he erected one at his own expense, at a cost of a £67.12.11½. He also had general supervision over all schools. When the church was burnt down in 179B a new one was built.

His wife Mary shared his compassion for the Aboriginals; their daughter was named Milbah, (an Aboriginal name) He was the best farmer in the Colony, with a farm at Brickfield Hill and at Petersham, in 1790. He sold his farms to William Cox in 1800 and departed for England, he was succeeded by the Rev. Samuel Marsden.

The Annual Memorial Service held at St Phillips Church Sunday, 8th February, was attended by members  $\epsilon$  The Fellowship.

IN SEARCH OF SARAH BELLAMY

A search for the birthplace of Sarah Bellamy, convicted at the Worcester Assizes in 1785, aged 15, took us to Belbroughton, a delightful little Worcestershire village not far from busy Bromsgrove, where we were visiting a friend of many years.

Belbroughton is an ancient settlement, and the Parish Church of Holy Trinity stands on the site where former pagan ceremonies were celebrated. An early Saxon church is mentioned in the Domesday Book. The old mill stones used as attractive steps leading to the houses are evidence of a once thriving industry producing mill stones from the local quarry for the manufacture of agricultural tools.

Records show that a legacy left to the old village school of the 1Bth century provided for a 'skilful teacher to instruct pupils to read and write and learn Latin! School commenced at 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. with two days holiday at Easter, a week at Whitsuntide and twelve days at Christmas. Could this be where Sarah learnt to read and write?

By arrangement we met the Church Warden and the Founder of the Belroughton History Society. The latter, Mrs Agnes Spier presented us with copies of certificates from the Church Register now held in Worcester, of the Bellamy's and Stauntons. We felt sure that the Sarah, baptised 3.2.1770 was the person we were seeking — father Richard Bellamy and mother other Elizabeth Staunton.

Since returning to Sydney correspondence with Mrs Spier and Mrs Gibson of the Belbroughton History Society have confirmed our hopes, Sarah sailed with the First Fleet on "Lady Penrhyn".

We have now learnt that the Belbroughton History Society is organising a major Exhibition in the Church Hall in May (to coincide with the sailing of the First Fleet) and Sarah will be featured. Despite the old adage, 'a prophet is never honoured in his homeland", we, the descendants of Sarah Bellamy can rejoice that Sarah, just 200 years since she was banished from the shores of England, is being honoured at her birthplace.

Ula Clarke.

"CAPTAIN PHILLIP'S HOUSE"

The following is taken from a recent issue of the Newsletter of the Royal Australian Historical Society. Whilst a First Fleeter would instinctively know where to find the First Governor's home in Bath it can be quite an experience for "other" Australians.

A Bicentenary footnote Dr. Portia Robinson in Bath, England.

Admiral Arthur Phillip's house is on the high side of Bennett Street. Knowing this could save you many hours of frustrating questioning of the present-day inhabitants of Bath.

I tried asking. First at tourist centres, then at the bus depot, the taxi rank, shops, postoffice, newsagency, passers-by and, finally at the Bath Assembly Rooms historical costumes display.

The blank looks, the non-commital, disinterested answers were awful. Aweful in its original sense of awe-inspiring — for an Australian. 'Phillip? Phillips' Can't say I know the chap'. Gentle prodding from me. 'Governor, was he . . . oh, you mean an Australian! That explains it.' 'Arthur Phillips' You mean that seaman chap? Something to do with Australia, wasn't he? Let me think . . . wasn't he the one who sailed out there in a small boat alone? Can't say I know where he lives.' 'Phillip's House? Here, in Bath? What is it? . . . . Oh, ARTHUR Phillip? Sorry don't know . . . a GOVERNOR? Here, in Bath?' 'Arthur Phillip? Yes of course, wasn't he the one mixed up with this family migration down under? His house? Can't say I know that.'

So I took an extensive guided tour of Bath and environs in one hour from the top of an open double-decker bus with full historical commentary.

Innumerable stops and pauses as we climbed the hill behind Bath. Then arrived at Bennett Street with its facing rows of tall, narrow terrace houses, each with its iron-spiked fence dividing pavement from basement entrances. The bus slowed down. On the right is the house of Captain Phillips. He was mixed up with Australia a long time ago.' And the bus went on. Not a camera clicked, not a head turned to look at this, the final home of the man responsible for the establishment of the English colony of New South Wales.

Trudging back ('No, madam, you may not get off') I stood on those pavement squares, hand on the spiked railings and looked at this, the house Phillip chose as a retirement home for himself and his wife. The sailor was home from the sea...but chose to live on the hill of this lovely town within strolling distance of the Assembly Rooms

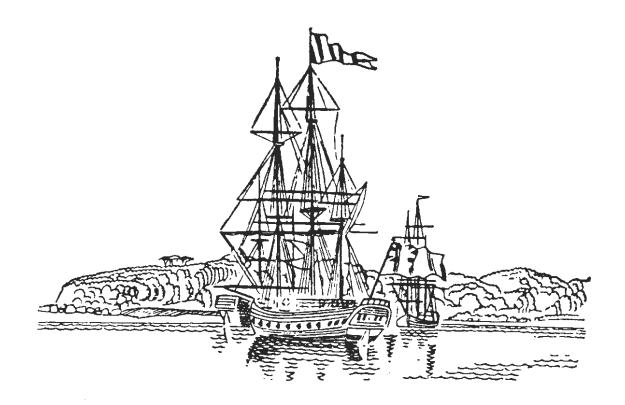

I looked up at what had been his parlour, his drawing room, his bedroom. As he stood at those open windows looking over and beyond the whole of the town to the distant coast beyond, had he thought of that far-off colony of Botany Bay, of the men and women he, had taken there — and left to settle that land? Did he think of his marines and seamen who had chosen to remain when he himself had returned in 1792? Did he think of those 'miserable wretches' the convicts destined not to be 'slaves in a new land', but the founders of a new society, a unique society, Australia?

I looked at the rows of shabby buttons next to his Regency front door. Buttons which showed how that final home for Arthur Phillip, had become a sub-divided, non-descript collection of flatettes. The only comfort his ghost could find, if, as rumour says, that lonely ghost still haunts his home, is the brass plate to the right of the front door. 'Admiral Arthur Phillip'. At least some promotion from 'Captain Phillips'.

In 1988 we celebrate the Bicentennial. And what of our first, our founding Governor? Doubtless Arthur Phillip will receive full recognition and honour from Botany Bay. But — to misquote Rudyard Kipling. 'What should they of Bicentennials know when only Australians know?' What of the men and women of England? What of the good people of Bath? Will tour bus guides be instructed to stop, not pause, at 'Captain Phillip's House' and identify that naval chap — and the years 1788 and 1828? Will the Council or elders of Bath fly an Australian flag proudly from Phillip's House for 1988? Or will Phillip's troubled spirit still haunt his last home, undisturbed by Bicentennial fever in that far-off struggling colony he cared for so long ago?
